AspenTech to Attend ARC Industry Forum 2019

BEDFORD, Mass. – January 29, 2019 – Aspen Technology, Inc. (NASDAQ:AZPN), the asset optimization™ software company, today announced that it will attend the 23rd Annual ARC Industry Forum, Driving Digital Transformation in Industry and Cities, February 4-7, 2019 in Orlando, Florida. The event's focus is on helping factories, cities, and all other organizations manage and navigate change in processes, people, ecosystems, and technologies, while remaining safe, secure and successful.

AspenTech is a Gold Sponsor of the event and will host a workshop on February 5 at 1.00 p.m. focusing on "Digital Acceleration: Achieving New Levels of Operational Excellence." During the workshop, AspenTech Senior Manager, Asset Performance Management, Robert Golightly will join ARC Advisory Group's Contributing Analyst Peter Reynolds and Senior Analyst Paula Hollywood to talk about what is needed now to take advantage of disruption to accelerate digital transformation and achieve new levels of organizational and operational excellence.

John Hague, Senior Vice President and General Manager, AspenTech Asset Performance Management, said, "We have a clear vision of the future where industry leaders will excel by taking advantage of technologies such as machine learning and artificial intelligence to drive superior asset performance and to optimize their business results. AspenTech works with customers such as Borealis, CSX, Saras and Teck Metals to apply digital technologies that help them achieve specific operational and business goals. Leading organizations today are deploying AspenTech digital solutions to increase their profitability by improving their reliability and eliminating unplanned losses and downtime."

AspenTech experts will also be available throughout the entire ARC Industry Forum 2019 at Showcase Booth number 4.
